Army organised a tree plantation drive at Village Dalogra in Rajouri district, today. 200 Saplings have been planted at the High School, Pir Baba and surrounding areas. A large number of villagers took active part in the tree plantation drive. The event was organised as part of environment protection initiative taken by the Army. School children from various schools of Dalogra planted saphings alongwith villagers and soldiers. Children also gave a tak insisting on the need to avoid polythene bags and new methods of arbage disposal. Army is also encouraging farmers to ollow organic farming to increase agricultural production.

Trail of terror attacks

unending trail of terror attacks across the particularly in Europe and West and South Asian countries including the Indian sub-continent is a Countries including the indian sub-continent is a dreadful bane of contemporary civilized society. The terrorists have been on killing spree enacting horrible terror attacks on the peaceful citizens without much exception and the current scenario is the biggest challenge for the entire humanity. While India is the worst victim of terrorism sponsored by the how avidence Dhittane dual bane and how new and how the set of the her neighbor Pakistan, developing world has nov faces the heat of such terrorism for which India has been warning for this monstor for decades but the world leaders neglected now paying huge price. There is no mistaking the fact that Europe, which was considered one of the most tranquil destinations for tourists, is now in the grip of violence and terror and is fast ceasing to be a grp of volence and terror and is fast ceasing to be a tourist heaven. Every now and then innocent bystanders, shoppers and sightseers are targeted in some country or another raising a fear psychosis in the entire region. The latest incident, a shooting spree at a Munich shopping centre in Germany on Friday in which at least 10 people were killed, including one terrorist, was attributed to three armed suspects one of whom fell victim to the terror attack rampage comes a month after a teenage asylum seeker went on a stabbing spree on a regional train, also in Germany. The suspicion was that these were the handiwork of the infamous IS (Islamic State) which has handwork of the terror across Europe and boasting gleefully that it is the one that is behind such incidents. While Europe, in general, has been on alert for terrorism in the face of a string of attacks, Germany had so far escaped the kind of large-scale jihadist terror seen in France. The rain attacker was a 'lone wolf' evidently inspired by the train attacker was a 'lone wolf' evidently inspired by the Islamic State terror group but was not a member. On 14 July, at least 84 people died in the truck attack for which IS claimed responsibility. Europeans in general are questioning the wisdom of allowing thousands of refugees from Syria and other allowing thousands of refugees from Syna and other Islamic destinations, to take refuge in their countries for humanitarian reasons. While many are genuinely oppressed people running away from the fire and fury of Islamic State, there are many others who in the garb of refugees are diehard criminal minds who are taking refugees are dienard criminal minas who are taking advantage of the exodus into Europe to unleash a wave of crime and persecution on the locals. Many governments in Europe are in the line of fire of peace-loving citizens who blame their respective governments for laxity in preventing terror incidents and failure to combat terror. The exit of United Kingdom from the European Union combined with fears of terror strikes have robbed Europe of the sheen that the region had in the minds of tourists. While some favourite tourist destinations like Italy, Switzerland, Sweden and Austria are still free of terror it would perhaps not be long before the ugly face of terror hits these countries too. All said and done, Europe faces stupendous challenges - economic as well as security stupendous challenges - economic as well as security threats. Civil society in European countries is now awakening to the reality. Even in the US it is a sign of the times that more and more people are getting drawn towards a contender for the Presidency who is seeking to block the entry of an entire race - the Muslims - into the country. The world is indeed moving in a direction that appears to point to dangerous portents. But, arguably, it is also inevitable as the patience is losing with every passing day. day

Allowing 24-week pregnant woman to undergo abortion is a milestone

It's time we caught up and put our right to body and sexual health first.

n what could be a landmark judgement leading to review

In what could be a landmark judgement leading to review of India's antidhiwina abottion laws, the Supreme Court survivor to undergo abortion given the risk posed by the pregnancy to the health. A bench headed by Justice JS Khehar said. "In view of the clear findings of the medical board whose examination showed that contained pregnancy could endanger the petitioner's life, we are satisfied that it may be permissible to terminate pregnancy." termina petitioner's life, we are satisfied that it may be permissible to terminate pregnancy." Given that the petitioner had developed severe foetal anomalies, as per a board of doctors based in Mumbai, the attorney general of India, Mukul Rohatgi, advised the court that under the exceptions granted under Section 5 of The Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971, the woman must be allowed to undergo an abortion. According to Indian law, a woman can choose to avail abortion services within 20 weeks of pregnancy. The petitioner, a 24-week pregnant woman and a rape victim, had said that the 20-week upper limit of the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 was "outdated and abitrary in view of technological advancements and cases of medical complications". Seeking quashing of the provisions upholding the 20-week

Intercar compresents , seeking quashing of the provisions upholding the 20-week restriction, the petition held that a ceiling of 20 weeks was "arbitrary, harsh, discriminatory and violative" of Articles 14 (Right to Equality) and 21 (Right to Life) of the Constitution. The Supreme Court has taken due cognisance of the plea that

The supreme count has taken use consistince of use pies that said forcing a woman to go through an unwatted pregnancy is an unequivocal violation of her right to dignity and sexual and reproductive freedom as guaranteed under the Constitution. Though far ahead of outdated reproductive laws prevalent in countries like lendand, or even in certain American states, the 20-week restraint put a number of women in a spot in India, especially adolescents and poor rage victims who have very little access to health benefits and medical literature/amenities that the government is bound to provide. Now with Supreme Court making the provision, it's good news for Indian women.

Nitin A Gokhale

The military leadership, soldiers and indeed all security forces continue to battle difficult circumstances in Kashmir. Let's not add to their woes spreading half-baked stories, factually incorrect posts and inaccurate articles, says Nitin A Gokhale. Last week, Captain Amarinder Singh, Maharaja of Patiala, soldier and now politician, wrote a heartfelt piece batting for the Indian soldier deployed in Kashmir and berated the political as well as military leadership. The burden of his political as well as military leadership. The burden of his lament was: The Indian Army in Kashmir has been de-fanged and is fast becoming an "army of girl guides." The article immediately gained currency and wide circulation, especially among retired faujis, already angry with the government for various alleged sins of commission and omission on One Rank One Pension and the Seventh Pay Commission issue Captain Amarinder had some valid points in his piece written more as a soldier that he was. However, the politician in him could not resist the temptation of taking pointcian in him could not resist the temptation of taking pot shots at the current leadership, "The government of India must allow freedom of action to the army. The directive must be just one: Bring a situation in the state where the writ of India runs and not that of the Inter-Services Intelligence," he wrote, hinting that the current government at the Centre which has an alliance with the Peoples Democratic Party in Jammu and Kashmir was going soft on militancy in Kashmir. He was being economical with the truth. But more of the status of counter-insurgency a little later.

Coming back to Capt Amarinder's piece. As a political leader, he has the liberty and right to criticise opponents. The sad part is he has used the army and its so-called lapses The sad part is no has used the anny and its so-cancer tapses to hit out at the political leadership. "For instance, in Budgam when a car broke through a military checkpoint in November 2014, the soldiers manning the post opened fire, as was their duty. One officer and eight jawans were courtmartialed and imprisoned. Penalising soldiers for doing matured and ministrate. Fenansing softensis for coming what was expected of them is unacceptable. It is for the chief and his northern army commander to stand by their men in the difficult duty they are performing and not succumb to political pressures," Capt Amarinder writes in support of his criticism.

However, as it turns out, no such court martial took place The army's northern command, which has been at the The army's noticent command, which has been at the forefront of the counter-insurgency operations in Jammu and Kashmir came up with an official denial on its Twitter handle. It said: "No army soldier, officer court martialed/ imprisoned in the Budgam incident of November 2014,"

Let the army do its job, please!

giving lie to the good Captain's assertion

However, the clarification notwithstanding, a large number of Whatsapp messages, Google groups and Twitter handles started taking the army to task for punishing the soldiers once again highlighting the dangers of depending on pitfall. There I cited an example of how some months ago senior veteran criticised the ministry of defence a senior veteran criticised the ministry of defence for deciding to appoint /ustisfers' to sit on promotion boards of senior military commanders. Again, the article was written without bothering to cross-check facts. There was no such decision taken and yet, the article got widely circulated giving false impression and further adding to the already existing negative sentiments against the 'civilian' in military minds minds. Other such examples of misleading, untrue posts doing the rounds abound but suffice it to say that veterans -- many of whom are active keyboard warriors now -- may need to pause a bit and rethink about the propensity of using the stratagem of 'forwarded as received.' It is easy to morph, amend, twist articles, photos and posts because of improved technology and faster communication, thanks to the 'mobile republic' that India has become. A civilian forwarding a post about the military will not be taken as serionsly as a about the military will not be taken as seriously as a veteran's forward would be.

The veterans, I feel, have a great responsibility to support the organisation that they served with dedication and loyalty. Please level constructive criticism by all means. But please also have faith in the current leadership which may be faced with new challenges and circumstances, the old timers never had to face.

The military too needs to reach out to veterans and keen the The minitary too needs to reach out to veterains and keep the community informed about various new initiatives and developments concerning the organisations. As I mentioned in Chandigarh last month, every Command and, of course, service HQs should think of a 'communication cell' where veterans active in the traditional media and on social media veterans active in the traditional media and on social media can post their queries and clarify doubts so that gaffes that keep occurring because of misinformation/disinformation are kept to a minimum. Coming back to the current situation in Jammu and Kashmir. The army has studiously kept itself away from the current law and order issue in Kashmir valley where current law and order issue in Kashmir valley where protesters have been on a rampage in the wake of the killing of Burhan Wani, a self-proclaimed terrorist. In one instance, the army patrol, when faced with a riot-like situation, followed the standard operating procedure of warning the crowd before firing at the crowd that tried to snatch weapons from the soldiers. Unlike the police and central armed police forces, the army has to shoot to kill which is exactly what the patrol did. A closer look at figures pertaining to counter-insurgency operations this way is also revealing According to official a dozen minitation attempts from ratural y O sury. Ten soldiers have already died defending the country this year so far and this is not counting police and Central Armed Police Forces personnel who laid down their lives during their duty in Jammu-Kashmir.

Clearly, there is no let up in Pakistan's attempt to stir trouble Clearly, there is no let up in Pakistan's attempt to stir trouble in J-K, especially in the KashmirValley. And of course, there is no policy to rein in the army and appease terrorists. The Indian Army has stood firm for over quarter of a century in thwarting this attempt. The military leadership, soldiers and indeed all security forces continue to battle difficult circumstances in Kashmir, Let's not add to their woes by spreading half-baked stories, factually incorrect posts and inaccurate articles.

China's plans: Time for India to wake up!

then defence minister George Fernandes said: 'China has built roads up to the border, while there has been negligence on India's part.

Since Fernandes uttered these brave words, what has been done on the Indian side? The Modi Sarkar is apparently trying, but little has been achieved so far, nas been achieved so far, says Claude Arpi. One of the most important strategic developments in recent decades has been the arrival of the train on the Tibetan plateau in July 2006. Ten years later, the event has been largely ignored by the Indian media. The train has not brought radical changes for the Tibetans alone, but for India's defence preparedness too. For Beijing, it has been a historic date.

An article on the China Tibet Online remarks: Foreigners only know that the Great Wall is the seventh wonder of the world, actually, landscape.' modern Chinese construction is even more amazing.

For example, there are the 130,000 railroad workers working in the "forbidden zone of life" on the Qinghai-Tibet plateau, with no past references, they have solved many technical problems such as building a railway through frozen soil, and achieved a miracle in human railway construction, the Oinghai-Tibet Railway. The train is termed the 'pride of the Chinese people.' Ten years ago, Beijing hoped to solve several issues with

The China Daily recently advertised the Roof of the World thus: 'Tibet with its mystery is the spiritual Garden of Eden and is nged for by travelers home ad abroad. Only by stepping on the snowy plateau, can one be baptised by its splendour, culture, folklore, life, snow mountains, saint mountains, sacred lakes, residences with local characteristics and charming Further, tourism brings tremendous revenues to the regional government and helps in tackling the two to the other issues, the 'stability of the plateau and the defence of China's borders. In 2015, the Tibet Autonomous Region broke all records; it welcomed more than 20 million tourists. The tourism industry in the TAR generated $4.26 billion, three times the figure of 2010. Lhasa, Tibet's capital, alone saw its tourism revenue triple over the past five years to an estimated $2.51 billion. The number of tourists visiting the capital rose to 11.79 million in 2015, a 23 percent increase compared to 2014. An article on China Tibet

Mao Zedong knew that the only way to consolidate and 'unify' China's new colonies (Tibet and Xiniiang) was to construct a large network of roads. On September 7, 2015, soon after a grand parade on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Tibetan Autonomous Region, Yu Autonomous Region, Yu Zhengsheng, a member of the Standing Committee of the Politburo, who was the chief guest, met a large number of representatives from the PLA and the Dearble Acrowd Daling Fore People's Armed Police Force People's Armed Police Force posted in Tibet. By providing a decent income to local Tibetans, China believes it can keep the restive population relatively happy, thereby 'stabilising' the plateau. serious strategic implications for India, as ALL for filtin, as ALL infrastructure built on the plateau has a dual use: Civilian and military. On April 25, 2016, Xinhua reported that the National reported that the National People's Congress discussed a new law on national defence transport. It was a complete performance, says skipper Kohli after India beat WI

Antigua, Jul 25

India skipper Virat Kohli termed his team's win over the West Indies in the first Test a "complete performance" and reserved special praise for Mohammed Shami, who marked his return to the five-day format after a long injury layoff with four first-innings wickets. India stamped their authority as Ravichandran Ashwin returned impressive figures of 7/83 to bowl out the West Indies for 231 and notch up a record innings and 92run win at Antigua on Sunday 'Wow, I didn't know that " Kohli said when told that this was India's biggest win outside Asia, before adding, "Just feels good to get a win on the board always good to start well. Good prep time, for three weeks.

"Everyone was excited we'd enough practice. It was a complete performance Kohli emphasised on the need to playing really well and I wanted to be positive, if you want to win a Test you have to score quickly and get the bowlers a chance to bowl the opposition out twice. "Then A shwin played a brilliant innings down the order, it was a team batting performance. If we're playing five batsmen, we wanted to deepen the order. We had Saha at No. 7 and Ashwin was good enough to bat at No. 6. He was a pure batsman before he became an offspinner.

"Always good to have someone who can do pretty well in both. Our initial thought was three spinners, but the amount of grass made us go with three quicks, Kohli added
